Matthew Carruth's practice focuses on tax planning, tax controversy, and business transactions. In his tax planning practice, he has advised clients on the structuring of mergers and acquisitions, inbound and outbound cross-border transactions, employee compensation plans, and various individual income, gift, and estate tax matters. He has represented clients in tax controversies before U.S. and California tax authorities. He has also handled mergers and acquisitions (buy side and sell side), and matters relating to the formation and operation of corporations, partnerships, and limited liability companies.

Prior to joining Rutan & Tucker, Matthew worked for KPMG's Mergers and Acquisitions Tax Services group. He also clerked at the U.S. Tax Court and worked for three years as an attorney-adviser in the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission's Division of Economic and Risk Analysis.
